These are challenging times...

America's newest beef breed... Lowlines... is up to the challenge. For decades beef production has been all about increasing production with no regard to the cost of that production. Lowlines are the only beef breed that has been introduced to America with the dedicated intent to help beef cattle producers optimize high quality beef production in a forage-based production system while simultaneously cutting costs.

In other words, raise more pounds of weaning weight per acre while lowering feed costs and other inputs including labor and facility requirements. They can do just that...which is more than other beef breeds can. Introducing Lowline genetics to commercial beef production is the quickest way to cut costs and become more profitable, especially when calving first calf heifers!

This is an exciting time for the Eastern States Lowline breeders and we are thankful to the Klingbeil family and the entire staff of Riverwood Farms for their gracious hospitality and wonderful facilities that they have offered to host this premier event, the Eastern Pacesetter Sale.

Come and enjoy the weekend and the people and cattle. You are sure to find something you like in this widely diverse offering of high-quality Lowline breeding and show stock. You will meet some folks that you will enjoy and learn from this exciting weekend.

I challenge you to please come to Powell, Ohio and be part of the Lowline revolution!

Set the Pace,
Neil Effertz

This stout, silver steer will be very competitive. He has enough grow power to work in interbreed competitions yet he still has the look to do very well in junior Lowline shows. His paternal sister, Red Baroness 103W, was Supreme Champion of the 2009 North American International, and his granddam is a powerful, registered Charolais cow.
